PRESIDENT CHIPS

Holidays are over. Looking forward to Club meetings getting more carvers. I did not do a January Newsletter but I sent out the word that we were not meeting on January 18. Ray Tenorio, Ron Tyrrell, Barb Summer, Marty Anderson, Randy Martin, Jim Mishler and myself were at the Lincoln City Coastal Carvers Show on that day. If you were there and I missed you, my apologies. Several prior members of WWA were there. I met a chain saw carver who lives not far from me so I hope she will come for a visit. Several individuals picked up our flyer with Club details so I look forward to visits from them. The show had 55 tables this year. A large variety of carving subjects and carving styles. Saturday had a great turnout of visitors. Sunday about half that many. My wife, Julie, was a great greeter at our club table. We went to the Show dinner Saturday night. They served Hawaiian food and held an auction of several carvings. Several went for over $300. Several clubs were represented. Lower Columbia Woodcarvers of Longview sold a large selection of carving books to clean out their cabinets. They did not have a carving show last year. Feather and Quill Club were advertising the Columbia Flyway Wildlife Show in Vancouver. It will be at the end of August in 2020 instead of in September. On April 4 and 5 the Capitol Carvers of Salem will have their show. WWA will have a club table at that event. One funny story – Ron Tyrrell had a frog carving that he encouraged visitors to pick up. It had a bowl underneath. One young guy looked at it and said “I get the joke – it’s a BOWL FROG.” Speaking about Ron - he was planning to do a demonstration of the use of an AZ carving tool in February but we decided that March would work better for him due to a medical appointment he will do in February. Ray Tenorio won a People’s Choice blue ribbon for his Nativity set we watched him carve during 2019. Weather cooperated at the show. It was a wet Saturday but a sunny Sunday. Wave action was fun to watch. Roads were clear with some snow scatterings on the side. We have no demonstrations for February 15 unless one of you wants to do a presentation. Bring wood from your winter projects for Wood Draw. Bring your winter projects for Show and Tell. And don’t forget your tools. See you there.
